

Please do not allow the banks to over ride the no call list. My parents are elderly and it is quite upsetting to them to receive numerous calls per day. If I want to contact my bank, I know their number. The old saying "don't call me, I'll call you" holds very true for the issue. In fact if I receive a call from someone, I automatically stop business with that company. The telephone is for my use, not to provide an opportunity to be harrassed by the continous flow of sales calls. PLEASE, do not allow the banks to do this. I am also contacting my bank and informing them that if they call me,I will close my account and transfer it to a bank that respects my right to privacy and does not intrude on my family time with unwanted phone calls.
